Designed with performance in mind

The Elite Team Performance Program combines the latest academic thinking about teamwork with decades of practical experience building and leading high-performing teams in some of the most challenging environments on earth.

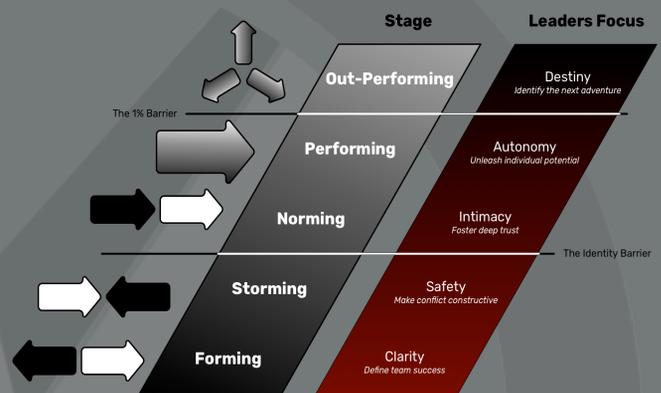

Guided by Adam O'Donnell, a former Special Forces Commando, your team will learn the same proven methods and develop the same no-excuses mindset that set the world's elite military forces apart from the rest.

During an action-packed day, a carefully structured program of workshops, expertly facilitated discussions and high-octane scenarios set in our state-of-the-art Close Quarter Battle (CQB) training facility will take your teams performance to a new level - and our guarantee is that you'll have fun doing it too.

Accountable teamwork

Whether it's a new team about to set out on an epic quest or an existing team seeking a way to refocus on what unites them, your team will build the bonds of trust and respect that will turn them into a force to be reckoned with.

They'll build the collaboration skills that will help them to solve problems together, they'll learn to communicate effectively with each other and together they'll create a cultural identity they're proud to be part of.

Agile initiative

It's one thing to spot a problem but another thing entirely to then do what needs to be done to fix it.

No matter how good your plan is, something unexpected will crop up and this is where the difference between elite and average teams really shows.

Your team will learn how to think clearly and act decisively under pressure to achieve their objectives.

Unbeatable morale

Morale is the fuel that drives a team forward and when it's exhausted it takes a long time, and a lot of hard work, to replenish. Elite teams know the importance of regularly taking time away from work to recharge and unwind both as individuals and as a team.

If your team has been working hard towards a major objective this is the ideal way to step back, celebrate the wins and prepare for the next push.
